Whitehall, July 9.

The following Addresses from the Volunteers of the Province of Leinster, and the Inhabitants of the Town of Newry, having been transmitted to the Earl of Shelburne, One of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, have been by him presented to the King: Which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's faithful Subjects, the Volunteers of the Province of Leinster, humbly beg Leave to approach your Majesty with Sentiments of the most unfeigned Loyalty, Affection, and Respect. Strangers to Adulation, we address our gracious Sovereign in the open Language of Freemen who have asserted their Rights, and uninfluenced speak the genuine Satisfaction of their Hearts at the Attainment of their Object.

Your Majesty's People of Ireland, feeling the same Love of Liberty which has so often displayed itself in the Conduct of their Fellow-Subjects of England, have sought only to be restored to that Constitution, to which by Right and Compact they were intitled. The benign Attention of your Majesty to the Welfare of all your Subjects, and the Wisdom of Great Britain, have, we conceive, acceded to our just Requisitions, and will have, by repealing the Statute of the Sixth of George I. (when that Measure shall be completed) annihilated every Claim of British Legislation and Jurisdiction over this Country for ever, and as such we hold it satisfactory.

Viewing therefore that Repeal as a total Extinction and Renunciation of a Principle hostile to the Rights of Ireland; relying with the most unbounded Confidence on the National Character, the Sincerity, and the Wisdom of Great Britain, and convinced that it is impossible our Magnanimous Sister Kingdom can ever entertain a Thought of violating the Faith of Nations, by the Revival of a Claim so solemnly relinquished, we are happy to declare, that our Jealousies are at an End; and we cheerfully unite our Voice with that of our Legislature, in assuring your Majesty, that when the Objects contained in the late Addresses of our Parliament shall be finally accomplished, no Constitutional Question between the Two Nations will any longer exist that can interrupt their Harmony.

The natural Current of our Affections, long painfully restrained, now runs with redoubled Force to a Nation whose Interests, next to our own Liberties, are the First Wish of our Hearts: Great Britain shall find her Power, so far from being diminished, diminished, has derived new Strength from her Justice; and the Conduct of your Irish Subjects will, we trust, evince to your Majesty, that the firmest Basis of your Throne is the Affection of a Free People.

Animated with these Sentiments, we shall endeavour to supply, by our Exertions, the Absence of those Troops, which our Parliament have offered to your Majesty to be employed against the Common Enemies of the Empire. With the great Charter of Liberty reared upon our Standard, the Cause of Britain becomes the Cause of Ireland; and we are ready to face the Foes of both, determined with her to conquer, or with her to fall.

We cannot conclude this our humble Address, without offering to your Majesty the grateful Tribute of our Acknowledgements, for the late Change which your Majesty has been pleased to adopt in your Councils and Ministers, and for those Measures tending to Public Economy and Diminution of undue Influence, which we have been taught to hope are to be extended to this Kingdom; and we trust the Day is approaching, when Corruption will be no more; when an Administration composed of Constitutional Men, standing on the solid Ground of Public Liberty, actuated by no Object but Public Prosperity, will see a grateful and independent Nation crowd to its Support, and raise it superior to any Arts which would shake, or any Props which would disgrace it.

CHARLEMONT, Chairman.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Inhabitants of the ancient Town of Newry, firmly attached to your Majesty's Crown and Government, beg Leave with all Humility to offer our most cordial Congratulations on the glorious Successes of your Majesty's Fleets; trusting that the Zeal, which seems to inspire as it ought the whole Empire, will continue to add Lustre to your Majesty's Arms.

We beg Leave to return your Majesty our humble and unfeigned Acknowledgements for that Paternal Care of the Empire, which prompted your Majesty to recommend a final Adjustment between the Sister Kingdoms; and are confident that the Generosity of Ireland will prove the Wisdom of that Policy which induces Great Britain to comply with the just Claims of an united People.

With the highest Veneration for the illustrious Character of his Grace the Duke of Portland, we wish to testify to your Majesty, in common with the Rest of the Kingdom, our unlimited Confidence in his Administration, and our Resolution to afford every possible Assistance in adding Strength to your Majesty's Arms, and in defending this Part of your Majesty's Dominions.
